Other petitioners holding bonds of 1878 urge the sale of the canal, should a receiver be appointed, it is proposed to sell the canal to the highest bidder and to sell the canal to the highest bidder and to sell the canal to the highest bidder.

It is stated that one substantial proposal to lease the canal has been filed at Annapolis and that purchasers are ready to make offers if foreclosure and sale are decreed.

The Senate passed the House bill to incorporate the Berlin and Lovettsville Bridge Company for the purpose of constructing a bridge at Berlin, Frederick county, Md., across the Potomac river to Loudoun county.

The greater portion of the session of the House was taken up with the debate on the Senate bill in relation to the Commissioner of Agriculture—taking the appointing power from the Governor and making it one of the elective officers by the Legislature. MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The stock market was active this morning. The weakness of yesterday was continued at the opening, and first prices were all from 1/4 to 3/4 per cent. lower than last evening's figures. The market met with better support, however, and prices generally began to mend immediately. The fluctuations, as a rule, were confined to small fractions only. The market presented no other feature of any kind, and at 11 o'clock was quiet to dull, generally at slight fractions better than the opening prices, but scarcely equal to those of last night. Letter from Richmond.

[Correspondence of the ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE]

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 29.—It is very evident now that Senator Moore, of Fairfax, hit upon a very important reform when he introduced that resolution looking to an investigation of the criminal expenses of the State.

"Cut down the criminal expenses of the State" seems to be the vogue now, and in a few days the General Assembly will get in some work in this direction. The debate over the bill providing that the Commissioner of Agriculture shall be a practical farmer has disclosed the fact that there is considerable opposition to the present Commissioner, Col. Tom Whitehead, but that gentleman is taking the situation quietly, and thinks that he will win in the race.

Senator Lawless, of Portsmouth, the youngest member of the Senate, has for the past two or three days been making a vigorous fight for Portsmouth by opposing the Norfolk ferry bill. He has had to contend against heavy odds and heavy influences, and so well has he worked that to-day the bill received just one majority. A motion to pass by is pending, and Mr. Lawless is not letting the grass grow under his feet. He will hardly win in the end, but there is no discount on the good fight he is making in behalf of Portsmouth.

Ex-Archbishop General James G. Field is asking the General Assembly to give him back the money expended by him while in office which was not required to be spent by his successors. He has knocked at the doors of several Legislatures for this money, but the knocking has not been successful.

The lateness of the session may operate against the Legislature taking any action in the way of causing the Judges of the Supreme Court to be elected by the people. I talked with a number of prominent lawmakers to-night, and while they thought that our judicial system was susceptible of great improvement, they were not prepared to say whether this Legislature ought to change the existing system.

There is a very strong feeling in favor of the bill introduced by Senator Dunn, of Albemarle, to abolish the office of Cattle Weigher in Richmond. In fact, nobody seems to interest themselves against this bill, and Senators are wondering how the office came to be created, since it is of such little use. It pays a salary of fifteen hundred dollars.

There was a large representation of legislators at the colonial ball to-night, which was one of the greatest social events ever held in Richmond. The object of this ball was to raise funds to preserve Virginia antiquities, and a modest Delegate from the Eighth Congressional district desires to know if all officeholders and office-seekers cannot rightly be classed as Virginia antiquities. Sight Restored.

Mr. A. K. Hawkes: Dear Sir—About one year ago my sight began to fail, with the usual symptoms, viz: after reading for a short time my eyes became confused and there seemed to be a dimness before them, also accompanied with pains in the eye ball. Being satisfied that glasses were imperative, I immediately applied to you for them, and I am happy to say, with wonderful results, for after having worn your crystal lens for a short time my eyes regained their accustomed strength, and I can now read the finest print for hours with perfect ease without glasses.
